Sustainable future – together.

DRIVEN BY A CLEAR FOCUS ON ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION, WE HAVE DEVELOPED THE CIRCULAR MODE CONCEPT.

In it, we follow our product on each step of its way - from raw material, extrusion, printing and converting phases, to making sure that it comes back to us to be recycled and converted into new product. The process is repeated all over again.

Recycled materials are inexhaustible resource and the most sustainable solution.

CLOSED LOOP SYSTEM COMMITTED TO RECYCLING AND CREATING INEXHAUSTIBLE RESOURCES.

Following products on each step of its way, we make sure that is recycled and converted into new product.

+ Extrusion

Blown film extrusion is continuous process of shaping the material from the granules into a tube of molten polymer through a die and inflating an air to form a thin film bubble. Through the cooling process bubble is folded down and cut to a flat film or tube. Material is winded to the large roles.

+ Printing

After extrusion, material comes to the printing process where product is visually defined according to customers demand. Products produced in Modepack are undergoing flexographic printing up to 8 colours having possibility to print most demanding impressions.

+ Converting

Having print applied, it is time to form a final product. For this we use our highly sophisticated machinery that are producing over 500.000 items in one day. It starts with unwinding process of printed roles to be folded in a way that is agreed with the customer.

+ User

There are over 100.000.000 users of the products produced in our factory par a year. We have various users in the countries we supply, but no matter the location or nationality, our interest should be the same - to reduce the environmental load and promote the culture of substitutability.

+ Recycling

Working closely with our customers, and the waste management companies, we make sure to acquire equal amount of waste to amount of the goods we annually produce and deliver. That waste we wash, grind and extrude to a new post-consumer recycled material that is converted into a new product.

People make difference

We strive towards perfection in what we do and how we do it.

Every successful project and every product perfectly produced is just a reflection of our inner synergy. It is a success of the whole team.

What drives us the most are the needs of our customers.
